A FREE Peace Box packed with skill-building activities, crafts and surprises for kids & their families!

INFORMATION PAGE

Peace Day started in 2018 as a free event for families with elementary-age children, focusing on positive communication and healthy relationships in a fun and accessible manner. It includes a take-home Peace Box for ongoing family skill-building and learning.

ENGAGING COMMUNITY AT PEACE DAY

This event gathers metro-area families at TCC for a day of fun activities that promote conflict transformation themes like naming emotions, discussing feelings with trusted adults and managing anger and frustration creatively. And lots of kid-friendly fun, like face painting and balloon animals as well!

EACH PEACE BOX INCLUDES...

Each family receives a Peace Box and a themed book curated by TCC's Reading for Peace volunteers, with a total of 1,000 boxes distributed at the event and through community partners.

Each box includes:

- individual and family activities
- crafts and games
- skill-building exercises

The activities aim to boost connection and emotional self-awareness, strengthen relationships between children and trusted adults & promote positive self-talk while teaching healthy anger-management strategies.

Every year, The Conflict Center distributes 1,000 Peace Boxes to families in the Denver Metro area!

Peace Day provides a chance for families to bond while learning essential skills that help children identify and comprehend emotions.
